

DECADE SPEAKER SERIES presents

Charis Kubrin, Ph.D.

Professor of Criminology, Law, and Society
University of California, Irvine

Charis E. Kubrin is Professor of Criminology, Law, and Society and (by courtesy) Sociology at the UCI. Professor Kubrin's research focuses on neighborhood correlates of crime, with an emphasis on race and violent crime. In addition to her work in peer-reviewed journals, Professor Kubrin is co-author of Researching Theories of Crime and Deviance (Oxford University Press 2008) and Privileged Places: Race, Residence, and the Structure of Opportunity (Lynne Rienner 2006) and co-editor of Introduction to Criminal Justice: A Sociological Perspective (Stanford University Press 2013), Punishing Immigrants: Policy, Politics, and Injustice (New York University Press 2012), and Crime and Society: Crime, 3rd Edition (Sage Publications 2007). Professor Kubrin has received several national awards for her scholarly contributions to the field including the Ruth Shonle Cavan Young Scholar Award from the American Society of Criminology (for outstanding scholarly contributions to the discipline of criminology); the American Society of Criminology, Division on People of Color and Crime, Coramae Richey Mann Award (for outstanding contributions of scholarship on race/ethnicity, crime, and justice); and the WEB DuBois Award from the Western Society of Criminology (for significant contributions to racial and ethnic issues in the field of criminology). In 2007, she was a visiting fellow at the Centre for Criminology at Oxford University.

RETHINKING CRIME AND IMMIGRATION

This session will address the myths and stereotypes surrounding the immigration-crime link and discuss what we actually know with respect to how immigration and crime are associated based on Professor Kubrin's own research and the research of others in the field. In the end, Professor Kubrin will argue that we must reconsider what we think we know about crime and immigration.
